

What has the ANMF done for members?

- Successfully campaigned to legislate nurse/midwife patient ratios. Secured historic ratio improvements and new ratios phased in from March 2019. Secured an Andrews Government re-election promise to legislate a second round of ratio improvements including ratios in mental health services.
- Achieved net pay parity in 2019 for Victorian public sector general acute, aged care and mental health and private acute members with their New South Wales colleagues.
- Secured an Andrews Government commitment to 'ANMF's 10 point plan to end violence' leading to contractual obligations on public hospital boards to report all violent incidents in their annual reports tabled in parliament. ANMF continues to work with hospitals to end violence.
- Secured clauses in the public sector general and mental health agreements making employers responsible and accountable for workplace safety by developing and implementing consistent action plans to end violence. ANMF will use this work as a blueprint for private and not-for-profit employers to adopt.
- Worked with the Nursing Board of Victoria to set up the Nursing and Midwifery Health Program Victoria (NMHPV) in 2006. Secured ongoing Andrews Government funding in 2017 for the program. NMHPV provides free face-to-face counselling, referral and support by nurses for nurses and midwives and nursing and midwifery students.
- Secured paid family violence leave to enable members experiencing family violence to maintain employment while taking time off for medical and court appointments.
- Retained registered nursing positions in private-for-profit and not-for-profit aged care agreements. Campaigning for safer staffing levels and better wages and conditions.
- Negotiated a partnership with the Andrews Government to reduce health services' impact on the environment.
- Campaigned successfully to keep nurses', midwives' and carers' access to the federal government's additional paid parental leave.

No-one expects to be called before the coroner, be requested to give evidence for the police, be accused of professional misconduct or even dismissed. But the reality is these things happen in our professions every day.

When you are a fully financial member, the ANMF legal service and ANMF's professional indemnity insurance are there for you when you need them.

ANMF members-only policy

The ANMF lawyers, Gordon Legal provide a comprehensive range of legal services which are provided as part of your ANMF membership.

These services cover professional matters such as professional conduct issues, AHPRA matters, coronial inquiries and industrial/employment/WorkCover matters.

Personal legal services for matters such as criminal law, transport accident claims, superannuation claims, family law, conveyancing, complex wills and probate are provided at preferential rates.

ANMF industrial, professional and legal advice and representation under this policy are only provided to members of the ANMF who are fully financial at the time of the incident for which they are seeking assistance.

This policy means nurses, midwives, and carers will not be eligible to receive any assistance (including industrial and professional advice and representation) for any incident that occurred while they were not a financial ANMF member.

This policy enables the ANMF to concentrate all its resources on ANMF members who remain financial.

A written referral from ANMF (Vic Branch) is required for access to legal services. Members should contact ANMF (Vic Branch) on 9275 9333 or records@anmfvic.asn.au in the first instance.

This brochure is to be read in conjunction with the ANMF (Vic Branch) professional indemnity insurance brochure.
